Fresh from performing at the Rocky Mountain Folks Fest in Colorado, Antje returns for her fifth Rose Garden stop. Her songs have been critically praised for their hard-won wisdom, dark-eyed realism, and street-smart romanticism. A highly successful Kickstarter campaign provided her with the funds to now begin her fourth full-length studio album called "Twenty Dollar Leap Year." A night with Antje is one to remember.

GARNET ROGERS
October 18, 8:00 pm

Ontario-born Garnet Rogers has consistently been one of the most popular artists to ever play the Rose Garden. With his smooth, rich baritone, his incredible range, and thoughtful, dramatic phrasing, Garnet is widely considered by fans and critics alike to be one of the finest singers anywhere. His music, like the man himself, is literate, passionate, highly sensitive, and deeply purposeful.

jumped into the forefront of today's progressive roots music movement. Lindsay Lou's songs are fully crafted stories, often based on real-life experiences, with lovely hooks and choruses. They're an all-American family, front-porch pickin' party, with each song shining with the polish of handmade music.

When 22-year-old harmonica ace Annie Raines first sat in with 42-year-old country blues guitarist Paul Rishell in a Boston bar in 1992, few in the crowd suspected that they were witnessing the beginning of a musical partnership that would span the next 22 years and counting. Their first Rose Garden appearance two years ago absolutely blew us away!

THE HONEY DEWDROPS
April 18, 8:00 pm

Using a handful of acoustic instruments, two voices, and one microphone, Laura and Kagey strive for clarity over effects and ornamentation. It's what you have left when you strip everything back down to zero. It rocks, it reels, and then it consoles you when you come back down. It's pure, yet powerful music. They've been away from us for three years... way too long. When they finish playing, all you'll want is more.
